WILLIAM MASON. Op. 40.

NOTE According to the following manner of notation all of the notes on the upper staff should be played with the right hand, those on the lower staff with the left hand. The melody is printed in larger notes than the accompaniment and is thus easily distinguishable to the eye. It should be played with the thumbs of both hands in alternation and must be very firm, loud and distinct throughout the piece, in order to produce the intended effect.

In march time. Steady, bold and firm.

Piano

f Strongly accent the melody.
